

Course Maker Space

This workshop is designed for children who want to dabble in 3D modeling and printing; students who like to play, imagine, draw and share. It is a space that allows them to unleash their imagination. It also intends to bring children closer to their training processes in cutting-edge technologies and software that could later become the backbone of their professional life. This course helps in the transition from school to university thanks to the exposure to academic life, which makes it much more interactive and awakens in each of them new concerns that allow them to freely develop their professional identity.
